CEO and Co-Founder of Neutrona Networks, the leading managed network connectivity partner in the Americas.

“Neutrona first hired Rick Goodman back in 2016 to coach some of our financial managers on improving their communications skills and teamwork. During this interaction we found out that we could make an additional huge positive impact by expanding the program to include our entire management team.

Neutrona is a company that has been growing continuously over the past 8 years at a rapid pace, and it's a challenge to spend enough time on continuous improvement when the business is moving so fast. Rick’s personalized coaching of our management team has enabled us to continue executing on the business while also making time to continuously improve our communication, our effectiveness, our workflow, and our teamwork. Rick has also delivered dozens of top-quality speeches, workshops, and training courses to our team over the past 3 years.

I highly recommend Dr. Rick Goodman as a coach, speaker, and as a mentor to any organization or executive leadership team who wants to make continuous improvement a priority in their business and in their lives.

Rick really cares about his work, and he really cares about the people he works with and that's the key to delivering world-class executive coaching and public speaking.”
